

Beyond the sunset

By David Jacobson

Beyond the sunset
that blanket of light that envelopes my soul reaching out from within reminding me that hope is stronger than the fading light illuminating for all the world to see that beauty is sometimes too much for the human heart to endure this fragile body that I call home stretches outward to reach kindred spirits thirsting for inspiration those that see, feel, touch my spirits center forget their boundaries and become the source of the fading sun's power lesser souls blind to all but this fragile body while kindred spirits join me on my journey
beyond the sunset